The Board of Public Works met in secret session Monday night with the Finance Committee and Selectmen.

Chairman Allen Flye, whose board called the meeting, told the TOWNSMAN editor "This is a closed meeting". When asked the subject under discussion, he said merely "it's a subject to discuss between boards".

But when he was asked if the matter concerned the townspeople, Flye agreed it did, saying "some-what".

Queried, then, as to whether he thought the townspeople had any right to know what was being discussed that affected them, Flye

Cancer Movie Library April

The 1957 Cancer Educational and Fundraising drive is at the half-way mark. The Andover chapter's progress is "satisfactory."

The Cancer Crusade is on April 1. An educational display was placed in the Library for the general public to examine. Reports indicate this literature has been read. Mr. Hallowell expects that this goal of the drive is as important as raising funds for the American Cancer Society and the entire public mind.

Cancer Movies At Library April 26

The 1957 Cancer Foundation educational and fund raising drive is at the half-way mark. N. Penrose Hallowell, chairman of the Andover chapter's drive, indicates that progress has been "satisfactory."

The Cancer Crusade opened here on April 1. At that time educational displays and literature were placed in the Memorial Library for the general public to examine. Reports indicate that this literature has been widely read. Mr. Hallowell emphasized that this goal of the drive is as important as raising funds. The American Cancer Society wants the entire public mindful of the seven danger signs of cancer, so that they may be treated early and thus eliminate many deaths which have resulted from the ignorance of the general public on the nature of cancer.

To aid further this education, movies will be shown at the Memorial Library on Friday, April 26, at noon and again at 7:30 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend these films which will be commented upon by a doctor appointed by the Cancer Society. The doctor in attendance will answer any questions on the nature of cancer and about the Cancer Society.

Fund raising to this point has been limited to the solicitation of advanced gifts from individuals and industry. The Advanced Gifts Chairman, Melvin Weiner, indicates that returns have been good, but urges workers and those with pledge cards still outstanding to turn them in as soon as possible.

The fund raising effort will culminate April 30 when over 300 volunteer workers will conduct a house-to-house campaign.

PARENTS LEAGUE PLANS THEATRICALS

Andover has been gathering its forces once again and planning for the future more and more local children's productions whereby the creative abilities and imaginations of the young can be fully expressed.

A meeting has been scheduled at the home of Mrs. Thayer Warshaw for Tuesday, April 30, to discuss plans for a fall children's play and to appoint special production committees for the event.

Before fall, however — Saturday afternoon, May 11, to be exact — the League is bringing to Andover under its full sponsorship the famous Children's Theatre of Portland to present to young audiences its current hit play, "Runaway Rocket".

Mrs. James D. Wilson and Mrs. P. Hayden Clark are co-chairmen for the event and have announced that Punchard High School Auditorium will be used.

The Portland Players are quite unique. They have a distinguished and long record of fine children's theatre productions encompassing the drama, music and the dance and are run by a non-profit committee theatre organization solely to present a high standard of live productions to children. They were the first to establish a trailer theatre, and last year alone gave a total of 65 performances to children of Greater Portland and the surrounding areas in Maine. Charles Doughty is the Theatre's full time director. Under him talented teen-age volunteers comprise the casts, and a combination of adult and student volunteer crews design and build properties, scenery and costumes in the Theatre workshop.

Some of the finest cooking in the world comes out of the kitchens of Jewish homes during their Pesach, the Passover, which is their great Festival of Freedom. This opened, as you know, Monday of this week at sundown with the Seder service and the Seder meal—a glory to behold! Customarily a great family gathering, the Seder dinner is a sumptuous feast in which the entire family, even the children, have played each his own important role.

Ignorance is Bliss?

Once I had the mistaken idea that because of the many food restrictions during the eight festival days of Pesach, particularly the omission of ordinary flour and grain, and leavenings such as baking powder, baking soda and yeast, food would be lifeless and unsavory. Ignorance is bliss? Ignorance is just ignorance!

I have since learned that Matza meal, potato flour, and the many categories of unrestricted foods which now include wine and carbonated waters, dried fruits, nut meats, salad oils, etc., allow Jewish housewives a wonderful variety of truly gourmet delights which could be the envy of any fine household.

Among the recipes gathered here are a traditional dumpling "rule" from Mrs. George E. Goodman, 4 Joyce ter., called,

FLUFFY KNAIDLACH
(Mrs. George E. Goodman)
3 eggs separated
½ tsp. salt
¾ cup Matza meal
Combine egg yolks and salt.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold in the Matza meal and egg mixture thoroughly, but with a light touch. Allow to stand five minutes at room temperature. Drop by tablespoons into boiling salted water or soup. Cover and cook 35 minutes. Yields about 14 large "dumplings."

Also from Mrs. Goodman (snagged from friends she tells me) are three famous festival desserts. These and several others we'd like to print, if space permitted, come from the families of Mrs. Arthur Rooks, Mrs. Aaron Berenson and Mrs. Leo M. Trilling, all of Lawrence, but whose culinary talents are as well known locally as they are there.

WINE CAKE

(Delicious! Keeps nicely and comes from Mrs. Rooks)

8 eggs, separated
2 cups sugar
1 cup cake meal
Juice of one orange
Rind of one lemon
1 tbl. cinnamon
1 tsp. cloves
¾ tsp. salt
1 cup ground walnuts
½ cup Passover wine

Beat egg whites stiff; add gradually 1½ cups sugar. Beat yolks, adding remaining sugar, orange juice, rind and wine. Fold in egg whites, add meal last. Bake in 325 degree oven. Invert at once on wire rack to cool.

MATZA FARFEL PUDDING
(Mrs. Rooks)

1 box Matza Farfel
Add 2 eggs, mix well and let stand overnight. (The mixture will be dry). The next morning measure 2 cups of the mixture and add one cup boiling water. Drain off water. Add:
¼ cup Matza meal
3 eggs, beaten
¼ tsp. salt
½ cup sugar
½ tsp. cinnamon

boards should lead, not follow—that items such as new zoning, whether popular or not, should be put before the voters if the responsible public officials feel the zoning is necessary.

Further, she said, in other areas the "selectmen have abandoned their leadership" in town affairs. And she commented that the "board of public works are cry-babies" in their handling of municipal matters.

"It's time we had that manager," she continued, "the way the town is going now."

Mrs. Hammond and John Cole were the two Planning Board members who voted to ask for a special town meeting on zoning—while Chairman Lee Noyes and Fredric O'Brien voted against the proposal. It was several days later that Mrs. Hammond commented on the general political management of town affairs.

At the Planning Board meeting, the proponents of a special meeting argued that if the re-zoning has merit, then it should be presented for action even if board members know it is unpopular.

Opponents were as convinced that calling a special session would only result in defeat of the zoning, while Chairman Noyes again expressed his view that zoning should not now be changed, specially lot sizes.

Although Mr. O'Brien agreed that many of the zoning proposals contained in the master plan are necessary, he said he believed the town is not ready for them at this time. His general feeling was that articles should be prepared for the next annual town meeting.

"I feel", Mrs. Hammond commented then, "that we of the Planning Board should stand up on our hind legs and say what we think, no matter how unpopular it is. If we believe in these changes we should put them forward no matter how unpleasant it may be politically."

Mr. Cole voiced similar opinions. However, when the vote was taken only Cole and Mrs. Hammond voted yes, while O'Brien and Noyes were opposed. Neal Donald Thompson is away on vacation.

During the discussion, Mr. Cole said many people had commented to him that the Planning Board should stick to presenting zoning for awhile—not making changes. But he agreed that master plan proposals should be presented at least. Mr. O'Brien said he thoroughly agrees with many of the ideas and that some should have been done before this—but can see no interest among the voters in taking action now. The week before, when O'Brien and Thompson were absent, the Board had informally agreed that May 13 was a good date for the meeting and had instructed Mrs. Hammond to contact the Selectmen about calling the session.

The Selectmen had received the Planning Board letter asking for the session when they were informed that the Board did not agree. There is no indication that the Selectmen will call a meeting themselves. Several articles that might have been added to the warrant if one had been called are not, of themselves, important enough to warrant calling a special meeting officials feel.

Study Law On Secret Sessions

The Legislature is now considering, through one of its committees, a bill requiring state, county and local boards and public agencies to conduct open meetings.

Under the bill, as re-written by a committee of newspapermen, legislators and representatives of the Selectmen's Association, there are but few reasons for holding executive sessions.

Personnel problems are listed as one reason — for the very obvious reason that a frank discussion of an employee's shortcomings is not a matter of public interest. And, we may say, newspapers here, while not always being asked to leave meetings when such discussions are underway, do not print that type of information. However, under the bill now being considered, the local boards may legally call an executive session for such discussions.

A rather general classification, under which boards may go into closed sessions, pertains to information that might be considered harmful to the town's position in a specific matter. Such, we gather, might possibly be a frank discussion of some legal problem between boards and the town's legal counsel when legal action against the town is threatened or has been filed.

There may be a few, but very few indeed, other reasons for holding closed, secret meetings.

For any elected board — be it state, county or local — is expected to do its business where the citizens can find out what's going on. It is their right to know. It is not enough to announce that a board did this or that. For interested citizens really want to know how each member of a board stood on the particular subject. That's the only way they have to make up their minds, when election time rolls around, whether to vote for the individual again or not.

It all comes down to one thing. No public official should be afraid to stand on his own record. Occasionally a man or woman comes along in public life who is not scared to say what he or she thinks, for all the voters to hear and appraise. Sometimes, to be sure, that person takes an unpopular stand and is defeated for reelection — but he, or she, knows that at least there has been an honest effort to state the facts as they see them, fearlessly and without regard to political consequences. But most of the time, such honesty of purpose is recognized by the voters and rewarded by increased public responsibility.

It's always refreshing when such a person appears on the scene — and equally depressing when officials begin increasingly to use the cloak of executive sessions to avoid taking public responsibility for their actions.

At The Library

School "Source" Papers

Once again this year the library rooms have been buzzing with high school students in an all-out session with the mysteries and intricacies of the project known as a "Research Paper". This activity, with increased enrollments in all of the three participating grades, assumes greater proportions with each succeeding April.

The "Source" paper project is all part of the English department's program and is headed by Miss Beatrice Stevens and her staff of English teachers, encompassing about 325 students in all.

Each student is required to select a subject in which he has an interest but little information, confining himself to one specific area of the subject, and then proceed to build his subject matter with footnote references. The students are given preliminary briefing at school on the sort of material they will find useful at the library and are then sent on their way.

Definite requirements are given some groups as to the number of sources from which material is to be gathered and the limitations of articles in encyclopedias or periodicals, etc. Others have more freedom granted them in this respect, but all must follow directions exactly as given.

The subjects which come to light at the library desk are diversified, to say the least! — Walt Disney, The Federalist Party, Head Hunters in South America, Monaco, Inca Indians, Rockets, Miracle Plays, Taoism, Quakers, John Greenleaf Whittier, Confucianism, Battle of Vicksburg, Susan B. Anthony, Topography of the Philippines, Juvenile Delinquency, Mahatma Gandhi, Woman Suffrage, Henry Ford, the Pyramids, etc.

There is no renewal of periodical material, so many students take their magazines home in small quantities; some, wary of the elusiveness of a magazine, get permission to "store" their material under the library desk for a day or so.

50 Years Ago — April, 1907

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Natural History Society was held Tuesday at the School Committee rooms at the Town House. The following officers were elected: president, Corwin F. Palmer; vice president, William G. Goldsmith; secretary and treasurer, Myron E. Gutterston.

Work has been started at the Tyer Rubber Company's plant this week on the erection of an addition to the factory which will add 50 percent at least to the capacity for business of this rapidly growing concern. It is estimated that the cost of the changes will be about $50,000.

On last Friday, the annual Punchard Senior dance was held in the Town Hall . . . a short reception was held previous to the dancing which began at 8:30 and was enjoyed until 11:45. Mrs. Charles L. Curtis, Mrs. Walter H. Coleman and Miss Blanche Jacobs acted as matrons. The dance committee was composed of Misses Marion Saunders, Annie Coleman, Ethel Hazelwood and Philip Hardy.

The Andover Baptist Church has started on a new era of progress, according to the reports made at the annual meeting Wednesday. The annual report of the secretary, Clinton H. Stevens, mentioned the many improvements made in the church property, the increased attendance at the services, and the inspirational leadership of the Rev. Lorentz I. Hansen, who is now completing vital water supply problem for Merrimack College was under discussion. Very Rev. Vincent J. McQuade, O.S.A., president of the College, had previously outlined plans for two additional buildings in No. Andover — but suggested that later building will come in Andover on the Flying Feather Farm. The question of where the College shall obtain water — presently it gets its total supply from Andover — should be solved now, he advised, so that plans may go forward.

The prepared plan, recommended by Camp, Dresser and McKee, for expanding the water system in upper Elm st. area is in one of the later stages of the water service expansion program. However, Engineer Ralph Preble had been instructed to get estimated costs for extending a water main of ample size so that the College might be served with water. His report last week indicated a price of $18,600 to run a main from Summer st. to the Israeland development, thence to the College and to serve upper Elm st.

What constructive suggestions or decisions came out of the meeting Monday have not been revealed. Nor is there any indication of how individuals on the boards feel about undertaking the project.

Later in the evening, after the triple-board meeting adjourned, the BPW settled down to its own closed-door session. There has been no information about the lengthy meeting as to the nature of any public business debated or decided.

Earlier Monday evening, during the time the press was allowed in the BPW meeting, odds and ends of business were disposed of. They included many small water bill abatements; agreement that the Lane New York Co. should be retained for test well work on its low bid of $6280.50; and a discussion of whether to allow Edward P. Walsh, 17 Arundel st., to take down a tree that will interfere with a proposed driveway, and whether he should be required to pay for raising a solid manhole cover that is in his back yard at the site of a proposed garage.

Today marks the start of an intensive drive for food for the town's needy. In a number of the local markets shoppers will find brilliantly colored orange barrels in which each day they may place articles for the needy.

The resignation of Chief of Police Frank M. Smith last Monday was the starting point for a shake-up in the department which culminated in the appointment of Captain George Dane as chief.

with Mrs. Mears winning by one birthday. She is 82 years young.

Last Tuesday evening the school committee elected Punchard's new football coach. He is Walter C. Roberts, a former Holy Cross football star, who has played for Johnson High, St. John's Prep, and of course, Holy Cross.

Henry J. Dolan of the local Postoffice will speak at the meeting of the South Church Men's Group next Sunday morning.

Donald Cole Receives Ph.D.

Donald Barnard Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Cole, 11 High st., an instructor in the history department of Phillips Exeter Academy, has just received his Ph.D. degree at Harvard University from which he was graduated Cum Laude in 1943.

Dr. Cole was graduated from Phillips Academy in 1940 and received his Masters Degree from Harvard in 1947. In that same year he was elected to the history department in Exeter. He was given a year's leave of absence from his teaching duties in 1956 to enable him to live in Cambridge and to work for his doctorate.

For his thesis Dr. Cole chose "Lawrence, The Immigrant City, 1845-1912", which Dr. Cole is revising and expanding for publication in the near future.

Dr. Cole's academic career was broken during a three-year service period when he served in the Navy Landing Service as a lieutenant, doing duty in the Pacific. He is married to the former Miss Susan A. Wilson of Exeter. They have three sons, Douglas, James, and five; Robert Wilson, three, and Daniel Whittier, one year of age. MAY BREAKFAST IN WEST PARISH custom of May Breakfasts in Andover, the Woman's Relief Corps of G. A. R. held its first one in the old Town Hall in 1907. The upper rooms were filled to bulging, for not only did the local residents crowd in for the early morning May breakfast, but both Abbott Academy and Phillips Academy came in masse and added lively zest to the occasion.

Miss Beatrice Henderson, 64 Red Spring rd., remembers her mother working on the first G.A.R. committees and getting up at the "crack of dawn" to set the tables in readiness for the first breakfasters. In the early days Mrs. Henderson, just as did other committee workers, solicited food donations from house to house by walking the distance.

In 1930 the American Legion Auxiliary took over the sponsorship of May Breakfasts, holding them in the old American Legion Hall. As membership in the Auxiliary dwindled it became increasingly hard for the few members to carry the weight of such a difficult undertaking. The custom then passed on to the West Parish and has been going strong ever since.

Miss Ruth Sutton, dietician at West School, will be in the kitchen of the school cafeteria making the streusel cake this year.

Ministers To Preach On "Seven Last Words"

Ministers of Andover's Protestant Churches will offer messages based on "The Seven Last Words" of Christ during the annual Good Friday observance in the Baptist Church.

The three-hour service, starting at 12 noon, is divided into seven segments, with five-minute organ interludes between them, so those who wish to enter or leave during the three-hour period may do so.

At 12 o'clock, following an organ prelude, the order of worship is: Call To Worship, Hymn, "There Is a Green Hill Far Away"; Invocation, Collect For Good Friday, Scriptural Sentences, Prayer of Confession and The Lord's Prayer.

At the 12:10-12:30 service, the Rev. William S. Coffin of Cochran Chapel at Phillips Academy will preach on "Father, Forgive Them for They Know Not What They Do".

The Rev. Clayton Burgess of the West Parish Congregational Church will discuss the second word "Today Shalt Thou Be With Me in Paradise" during the 12:35 to 12:55 segment.

The third word, "Woman, Behold Thy Son . . . Behold Thy Mother" is the subject of the third portion of the service from 1-1:20 by the Rev. Donald J. Ryder, pastor of the Baptist Church.

From 1:25 to 1:45, the fourth segment will hear the Rev. Horace Seldon, pastor of the Free Christian Church, speak on the fourth word, "My God, My God, Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me?"

During the fifth period of worship, from 1:50 to 2:10, the Rev. Frederick B. Noss will speak on the fifth word "I Thirst".

LEGION AUXILIARY MEETING TONIGHT

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 8 will hold its regular meeting tonight at the Legion Hall. All members, it is reminded, should bring along a gift for the silent auction.

The concluding portion of the three-hour service, from 2:40 to 3, will hear the Rev. Hugh B. Penney, pastor of the West Parish Church, on "Father, Into Thy Hands I Commend My Spirit".

The organist during the afternoon service will be Mrs. Ralph I. Gilbreath.

Boys Dig Up Dynamite Cap

Digging for worms for fishing can have dire consequences sometimes. So it proved for two school boys home this week on vacation and looking for something to do.

Charles Murnane Jr., 10, son of Deputy fire chief Charles Murnane, and his next door neighbor, Joseph Steele, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Steele, 426-428 Andover st., met with what Andover police believe was a discarded dynamite cap while digging for worms near the Drinkwater

"Pike's Pit" in back of their homes.

The boys picked up the object and threw it aside and as they did so it exploded causing considerable injury to parts of their bodies.

The young Murnane boy was taken to Lawrence General Hospital and dismissed yesterday after many of the broken pieces of metal were removed from his left hand, chest, stomach, neck and both arms.

Joseph Steele, one of the five Steele children home from classes this week, fared a little better but had to have bits of metal removed from his hands and other parts of his body also.

Investigations by the police are continuing.

WILL PRESENT BRIGADOON MAY 3-4

and marks a wide departure from the operetta that has usually been given at the Academy.

In essence, the plot revolves around happenings in and around the 18th century Scottish town of Brigadoon, a village that comes to life once a year. By the merest chance two modern Americans stumble into the town on one of these occasions and are immediately swept into the life of the tiny community. Various romantic complications ensue with the hero, played by Jon Higgins of Andover, finding that his heart lies in the Highlands.

Supporting the cast of principals from both schools will be an on-stage chorus of 24 and an off-stage chorus of 80. Under the direction of William Schneider of the Academy faculty, a full orchestra of 50 will supply the music for the production, while the dramatic part is directed by Ralph Symonds, also of the Academy faculty.

The dance numbers are being supervised by Miss Joan Morace, a professional dancer on the Bradford College faculty, and the girls' chorus is in charge of Glenn Welsh, also of Bradford.

"ALL THINGS COME FROM THE EARTH"

(Author's Name Below)

Millions of dollars are spent to analyze these samples with the hope of discovering a better anti-biotic or a new cancer cure. Perhaps cancer may be cured by something from the earth.

One thing we do know: New medicines are perfected rapidly, as soon as they are applied for safe use, we stock them in our pharmacy.
